

Annual Report 2005-06

Vocational Service Director

Vocational Service aims at the commencement of the year were:

- To recognise at a rotary function, people who are contributing to our community by exhibiting pride in their workmanship.
- To raise the profile of Rotary.
- To increase the focus on vocational service within the club.

Pride of Workmanship

Debbie Chape, customer service officer at the Bendigo Community Bank Turrumurra, received a surprise on 20 October 2005 at a function to celebrate the second anniversary of the branch's opening – a Pride of Workmanship Award recognising her outstanding customer service skills. The award was presented to Debbie by Bob Ivey in the presence of the Member for Ku-ring-gai Mr Barry O'Farrell MP and Mayor Elaine Malicki.

At a Pride of Workmanship Award club function on 31 October 2005 two worthy people: Robert Munro of Northside Volvo Gordon and Bette Buckler of Healthcall Epping Nursing Agency, were recognised for their dedication, loyalty and by 'going that extra mile' contributing to the building of a better Australia.

My thanks to Lou Coenen for his invaluable help, including drafting and colour printing the eye-catching invitation letters sent to a mailing list of local businesses.

Marketing

Community awareness of rotary and our rotary club was raised this year through the various projects conducted by the club and in particular the Ku-ring-gai Garden Expo conducted in March.

A special thanks to Brenda Chad is well deserved for her excellent work on the club and Garden Expo web sites.

In addition special coloured invitations / fliers skilfully designed by Jana Pearce, were sent to selected individuals to attend special guest speaker nights.
